Food Assistance Program Summarized Eligibility Requirements

If you have difficulty communicating with us because you do not speak English or have a disability, we can provide free language assistance or other aids and services to assist you. These services are available by phone or in person upon request.

Households applying for or receiving food assistance benefits must meet all applicable eligibility requirements based on food assistance policies. Time limits and requirements of other programs do not affect a household's eligibility for food assistance benefits. A household may still qualify for food assistance benefits even if eligibility ends in another program. Households must cooperate with the agency in establishing eligibility for food assistance. Failure to meet these requirements can result in a denial or termination of the food assistance case.

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS

1. Household Members. The food assistance household is composed of individuals who live together and purchase and prepare their meals together for home consumption. Certain individuals, such as spouses and children under age 22, must be included in one food assistance household regardless of their method of buying food and preparing meals.
2. Strikers. Households with striking members shall be ineligible to participate in the Food Assistance Program, unless the household was eligible for benefits the day before the strike and is otherwise eligible at the time of application. However, the household shall not receive an increased allotment as a result of a decrease in income of the striking household member(s).
3. Citizenship and Alien Status. Citizenship/immigration information is used to determine eligibility for food assistance. Only U.S. citizens and eligible aliens may participate in the Food Assistance Program. Any household member who is not a citizen or permanent resident alien may be left out of your food assistance household. Providing citizenship/immigration information is voluntary. The Food Assistance Division will check with the U. S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) only for those household members that you are asking for food assistance benefits. We will not check on the non-citizens you do not include in your food assistance household but their income may count in determining the eligibility and food assistance allotment for the other people included in the food assistance household. Failure to provide this information will result in ineligibility (no benefits) for these members.
4. Social Security Numbers. The collection of a Social Security Number (SSN) for each household member is authorized under the Food & Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended, 7 U.S.C. 2011-2036, to determine eligibility for food assistance. The Social Security Number is used in computer matching and program reviews or audits to make sure the household is eligible for the food assistance benefits it receives. The SSN will be used to check the identity of household members to prevent duplicate participation and to facilitate making changes. Providing a social security number for each household member is voluntary. However, failure to provide a SSN for each household member will result in disqualification of that member. You will still have to give information such as income for this member.

The household must furnish a Social Security Number for each household member that you are asking for food assistance benefits. If a household member does not have a number, s/he must apply for one.

5. Residence. Households must apply for food assistance in the county in which they live. They cannot receive food assistance in more than one county or state in a month.
6. Work Requirements. Unless exempt from work registration, each member of your household must meet the following work requirements:
 - must be registered for work
 - must not quit a job voluntarily
 - must not voluntarily reduce hours at a job
 - must accept a suitable job that is offered. (The job must be 30 hours weekly or equal to 30 hours X minimum wage).

If a non-exempt member of your household fails to meet work requirements, [s]he cannot get food assistance. This could reduce or stop your household's food assistance.

Able-Bodied Adults Without Dependents (ABAWDs)

People between the ages of 18 and 49 (under age 50) who have no children and are not disabled must meet other special work requirements if they want to get food assistance. Federal law calls these people "Able-Bodied Adults without Dependents," or "ABAWDs." They may have to work in order to get more than three months of food assistance in the period from Jan 2019 to Dec 2021. But there are exceptions to the three-month time limit. Someone between the ages of 18 and 49 (under age 50) can get food assistance for more than three months if the person meets any one of these exceptions:

1. The person works at least 80 hours a month.
2. The person receives disability benefits.
3. The person receives unemployment compensation.
4. Anyone who has applied for unemployment compensation but has not heard yet is also exempt while waiting for a decision.

5. The person who is not receiving disability but has a physical or mental problem that limits the work [s]he can do. This may have to be verified by a doctor or other medical professional.
6. The person is unfit for work. For example, chronic homelessness may be an indicator that someone is unfit for work.
7. There is a child in the home less than 18 years old
8. The person cares for an adult who is incapacitated
9. The person is pregnant.
10. The person gets Family Assistance and is in a Family Assistance work program.
11. The person goes to a job training program at least 80 hours a month.
12. The person volunteers at least 80 hours a month doing something that serves a public purpose.
13. The total amount of time the person spends each month working, going to training and volunteering is at least 80 hours a month.
14. The person goes to school at least half time.
15. The person goes to rehab for alcohol or drugs.
16. The person works at least 80 hours a month for non-monetary benefits. For example, the person works for free rent or utilities.

FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS

7. Income. Income limits vary according to the household size. Households that contain no elderly or disabled individuals must meet both the gross (income before deduction) and the net income (income after allowable deductions) limits. Households that contain an elderly (age 60 or over) individual or a disabled individual must meet only the net income limits. See table below for both the net and gross income limits according to household size. Information about how long you have received food assistance will be released to the State Employment Service for purposes of qualifying your employer for the Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC).
